Independent Financial Advice

Equity International acts in a truly independent capacity. No insurance or other financial institution has a shareholding or other vested interest in the organisation. We deal with the majority of major banks, building societies, investment houses and life assurance companies which will no doubt include names that you are already familiar with. In the main, we aim to use institutions which are based in designated territories such as the Isle of Man and the Channel Islands where the highest degree of investor protection is afforded and recognised by UK regulatory bodies.

As well as our own strict internal Code of Practice, all non-discretionary products, accounts or policies recommended to our clients are underwritten by institutions regulated in the United Kingdom or who employ recognised regulation in other territories. ►

Equity International has voluntarily elected to adopt a code of practice broadly parallel to that set out in the United Kingdom Financial Services Act, 1986. Your security is enhanced by the virtue of the fact that we do not handle investors money directly.

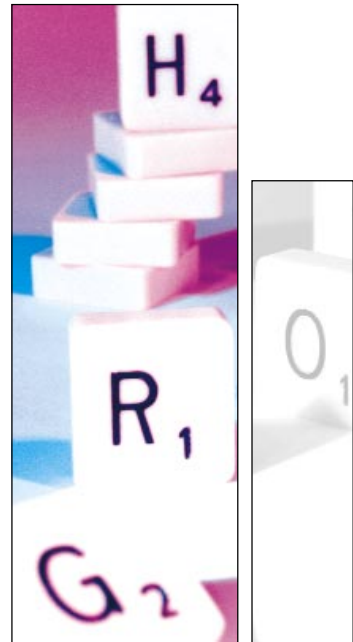

We consider it our duty to examine closely the financial strength of the institutions we recommend. Your business with our organisation is the subject of strict confidentiality and we are under no obligation to report the affairs of our clients to any revenue authority.
